

[Handwritten on two sheets of typing paper. Not dated, but it must be circa 8/10/70]

Dear Grandma and Grandpa,

Thank's for the dollar. I am saving it to put it together with my allowance.

Your grandson,
Neal

P.S.

the expert counterfeiter (me) drew a bill for you to use.

[hand-drawn dollar with Mickey Mouse]

Sorry about that, chief!
as a certain secret agent would say.

I am enclosing your check for the Christmas cards because Mom says the company might get confused if I wrote from a different address.

Vot a storm Ve had! Knocked a coupla trees down in some places.

Kennedy Mall had a hole in its roof from the storm.

I'm going on a field trip to Chicago. We're gonna see the Museum of S. & I.

Your grandson,
Neal